VISIT LE MANS

A tourist town, City of Art and History and candidate for UNESCO World Heritage thanks to its Roman walls, Le Mans is a city with strong economic, tourist, historical and heritage potential. As the capital of the automotive industry since the 19th century, Le Mans has voluntarily turned itself towards the future, with undeniable geographical and strategical assets: the city is located at the crossroads between major highways and roads, making it essential for both national (Normandy, Brittany, Pays de la Loire, Paris and Ile-de-France, Centre, Poitou-Charentes) and international trade. One of the historical assets of Le Mans is its shared history with Normandy and Anjou, with the Plantagenêt family dynasty – of which Geoffrey V (The Handsome) was the first member. An enamel effigy designed to adorn his tomb can be found at the Jean-Claud Boulard - Carré Plantagenêt Museum. His son, Henry II, King of England, was born in Le Mans and made the Comital Palace a major residence within his kingdom. Another asset of Le Mans, but by no means the last: the world famous 24 Hours Race, declared in 2012 by the National Geographic to be the first global sporting event, ahead of the Olympic Games. This race establishes “a bridge between the past and the present” ...

THE HISTORIC HEART FROM OLD LE MANS TO THE CITÉ PLANTAGENET

Why the name Plantagenêt?

Originally, Geoffrey V (also known as Geoffroy the Handsome) used to plant a branch of broom ("genêt" in French) on his helmet before heading off to war or hunting in the surrounding countryside, so as to avoid being accidentally injured or killed by his own men.

The name "Plantagenêt" was carried by his descendants and has left its mark on the city of Le Mans: the Palace of the Counts of Maine (which houses the City Hall today) was an important residence that regularly welcomed members of this dynasty throughout history.

In the footsteps of Henry II ...

Document available at the Tourist Office and at the Maison du Pilier Rouge

The Cité Plantagenêt refers to the historic district surrounded by the Roman walls built in the 3rd and 4th centuries, overlooked by the Saint-Julien cathedral – constructed between the 11th and 15th centuries. This is a truly incredible district, thanks to the richness and variety of its façades (more than a hundred half-timbered houses and a wealth of mansions built from the Renaissance to the Classical period). This historical backdrop has been used for years to shoot a variety of historical films and swashbucklers: Cyrano de Bergerac, On Guard, Gallant Ladies, The Man in the Iron Mask, Jean de La Fontaine, Molière, certain episodes of Nicolas Le Floch, and many more.

Originally dedicated to the Virgin and Saints Gervais and Protais, it has borne the title of Saint-Julien since the 9th century.

Divided into two styles – Romanesque and Gothic – the cathedral offers up a real history book to all those who visit.

Built in the 11th and 12th centuries, upon ancient foundations, the nave presents a set of so-called Plantagenêt-style vaults made during a period of stylistic transition, located at the end of the Romanesque and the beginning of the Gothic era.

Claimed in the 12th century to be "the most beautiful church in the West" by Bishop Hildebert de Lavardin, it has been the scene of many events: Geoffrey V, "The Handsome", the first member of the long Plantagenêt dynasty, married Mathilde, one of William the Conqueror's granddaughters. Future King of England, Henry II or Henry Plantagenêt was baptised there and had a mausoleum built in memory of his late father.

The choir – entirely in the Gothic style – dates from the 13th century onwards, comprised of a crown of thirteen radiating chapels opening onto a double ambulatory. A truly exceptional chevet is countered by a beautiful set of simple buttresses, as well as an inverted Y.

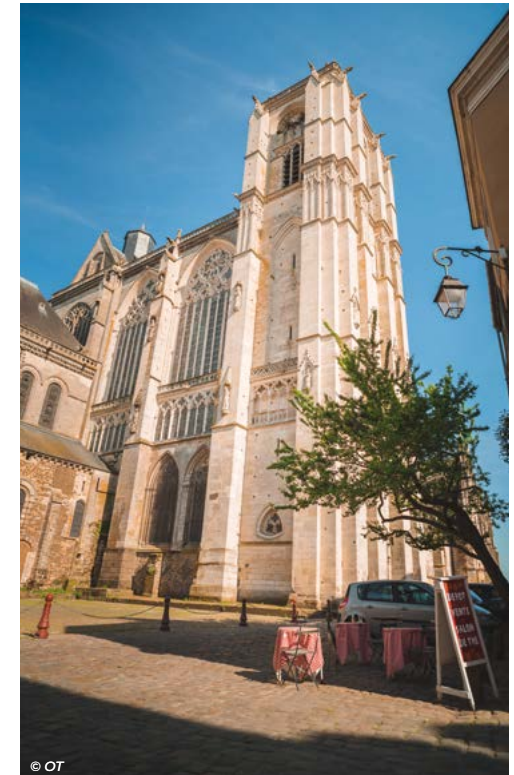

The transept came to complete the construction in two stages: in the 14th and 15th centuries.

Our movable heritage is particularly varied:
Stained-glass window of the Ascension (Circa 11th-12th century) arranged in the nave, alongside a fine set of stained-glass windows in various styles (12th-20th century)
Large Renaissance-style organs
Monumental paintings of musical angels adorning the Chapel of the Virgin
Terracottas dating from the 17th and 18th centuries.
There are riches to admire from the 21st century too, with the goldsmith Goudji's Christ in Glory installed at the entrance to the choir.

A Focus on Le Mans Saint-Julien Cathedral, booklet published by the City of Le Mans Tourism and Heritage department.

QUARTER SAINT-NICOLAS

Close to the historic districts, the Saint-Nicolas district is a fascinating spot for those keen to learn more about essential places of life in Le Mans.

As you leave the Cité Plantagenêt via the Ponts Neufs stairs, lean against the Roman ramparts – modified during the medieval period – and admire the Royal Collegiate Church of Saint-Pierre-la-Cour, former chapel of the Palace of the Counts of Maine, erected between the 11th and 13th centuries. Its austere stature hides a lower hall with slender vaults, whose bays are punctuated by fine pillars.

Under the School of Fine Arts, the foundations of the Roman baths – destroyed in the 3rd century during the construction of the Roman walls – can be found on Rue Rostov-sur-le-Don. The staircase continues through the Rue des Ponts Neufs, where you will find yourself immersed in the city's particularly lively alleys. Cafés, bars, tea rooms, decoration shops and everyday objects are essential sites within city.

COLLEGIATE

PALAIS DES COMTES DU MAINE

Fragments of the Plantagenêt Palace (1126-1240) can still be seen today, inserted in the buildings of the current Le Mans Town Hall.

The complex is organised around two large, noble hubs, secular and ecclesiastic: the count's aula and the Saint-Pierre-la-Cour collegiate church. The aula (large ceremonial hall) serves as a framework for the exercise of power and its representation. This is where ceremonies and feasts are held. Count Geoffrey Plantagenêt and Mathilde his wife, later followed by the very powerful Henry II, their son, master of the English kingdom and the western half of France, marked this high place of public life with their presence. While it has retained its medieval appearance on the Avenue Rostov sur le Ron and Rue de la Comédie side, the building features a classic L-shaped façade with a triangular pediment on the reverse wing, on the Place Saint-Pierre side. The hall hosts temporary exhibitions.

QUARTER RÉPUBLIQUE

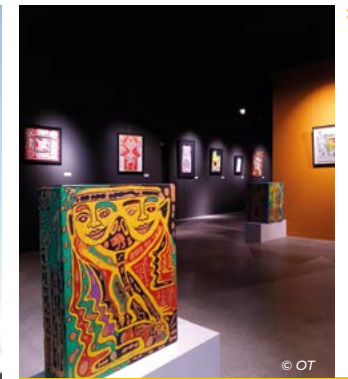

The Place de la République, (formerly Place des Halles) has been the heart of the city since its very creation. Lined with old travellers' hotels, banks, shops, cafés, brasseries and the Chapel of the Visitation, this airy and incredibly lively square is an invitation to stop and – in the right weather – sunbathe on the terrace of a café or restaurant. It can be accessed by tram or on foot.

Rue des Minimes is an important commercial thoroughfare. Here, you can admire two department stores that have been awarded the 20th Century heritage label.

THE CONTEMPORARY ART CENTRE - FIAA LA VISITATION

The Monastery of the Visitation was erected by Mathurin Riballier under the direction of a Visitandine nun, Sister Anne-Victoire Pillon. The chapel was built between 1723 and 1737. This emblematic complex in the city centre of Le Mans has been home to several famous occupants. The former cloister was recently fitted out to accommodate shops, craftsmen and a selection of restaurants and bars. In the heart of central Le Mans, Là Visitation is a place of life where walkers and customers mingle as they explore the shops. Take advantage of a friendly setting to discover these shops, before extending your visit with a trip to the bars and restaurants. A truly timeless place that you surely won't want to leave!

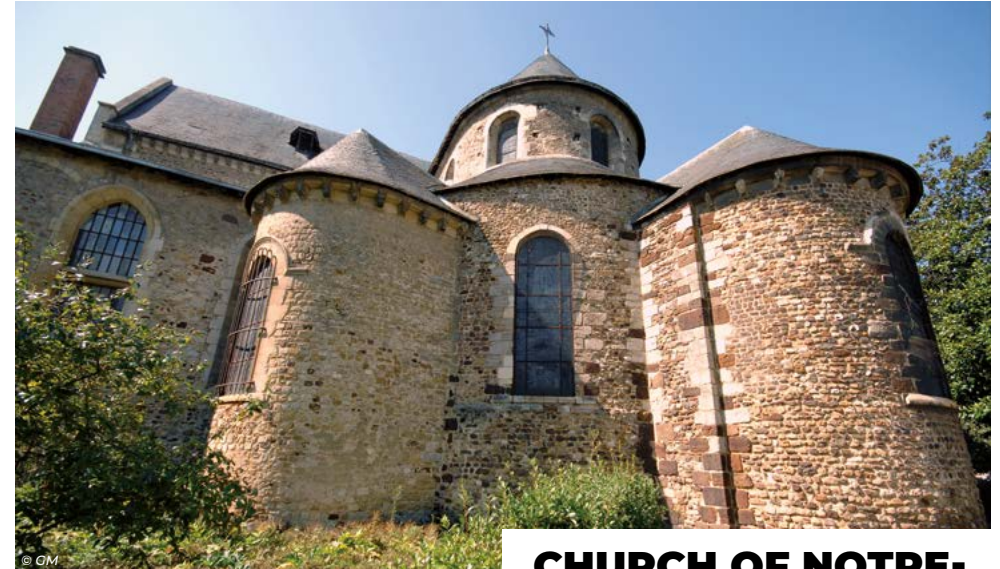

CHURCH OF NOTRE-DAME DE LA COUTURE

paroisse.ndcouture@sarthecatholique.fr

Close to the Prefecture, the Church of Notre-Dame de La Couture is the former abbey-church of the Benedictine monastery of Saint-Pierre-Saint-Paul de La Couture, founded in the 7th century by Bishop Saint-Bertrand. This Gothic-style religious building features some particularly interesting altarpieces (17th, 18th and 19th centuries). In the nave, a "copy" of the Virgin and Child can be found, sculpted by Germain Pilon, an illustrious Renaissance artist, alongside paintings by Parrocel. The original is located in a secure part of the building.

CHURCH OF NOTRE-DAME DU PRÉ

The church of Notre-Dame du Pré (formerly Saint-Julien du Pré), on Place du Pré, is a superb Romanesque church dating from the 11th and 12th centuries, enlarged in the 19th century by the architect Denis Darcy, a pupil and colleague of Viollet-Le-Duc, renowned Parisian architect. This church was dependant on an abbey enclosure, destroyed during the Revolution.

CHAPEL OF THE ORATORY

In the old suburbs of the city (Saint-Vincent district), the chapel of the Oratory – now dependent on the Montesquieu high school – offers up some charming architecture, with a choir surmounted by a Baroque-style baldachin. (open only during concerts and on heritage days).

HOTEL-DIEU COËFFORT

The Hôtel-Dieu de Coëffort (Place Washington) was built in the 12th century by order of Henry II Plantagenêt, King of England, to welcome the poor and the sick, abandoned children and pilgrims. Though the exterior may appear somewhat solid and sparsely decorated, this building houses some incredibly fine architecture. A range of beautiful paintings can also be discovered here. The church is open during offices or guided tours. This site is well worth a detour during your stay in Le Mans or Sarthe. In 1953, the "Treasure of Coëffort" – made up of 31 pieces of medieval civil goldsmithery – was uncovered during refurbishment works to the building. This very sober, silver tableware was used by the hospitaller brotherhood of the Hôtel-Dieu Coëffort in the 14th and 15th centuries, and was most likely buried during conflicts. This treasure is currently on display at the Jean-Claud Boulard - Carré Plantagenêt museum.

Since 2017, the Sarthe Department has sought to restore the abbey garden to its former size, while strictly respecting current environmental issues. A conservatory orchard was therefore created. Beehives have also been set up. A vegetable garden has been developed to the north of the church, with a pond and greenhouse added to the development of the garden, cultivated in permaculture. A chicken coop will join this collection later in the year, housing a dozen hens. The food forest, planted in 2021, will be expanded in 2022.

With eight centuries of history behind it (listed as a Historic Monument), the Royal Abbey of Épau is one of the finest examples of Cistercian architecture in France. This jewel was founded by Bérengère de Navarre, widow of Richard the Lionheart, whose recumbent figure is exhibited in the abbey church. The abbey became the property of the Sarthe Department in 1959. A vast programme of restorations, still underway today, have revitalised the building, making this abbey one of the cultural highlights of Sarthe.

Today, the abbey's cultural programme is punctuated by several events: music festivals (jazz, classical and electro), temporary exhibitions (photography, comics, painting, etc.), workshops for young audiences, concerts, events, guided tours and the end-of-year light and sound journey.

LE MANS NATURE

Two rivers cross the Le Mans urban agglomeration: the Sarthe and the Huisne. Overlooked by an elongated hill, the Sarthe was a centre of attraction for the Aulerici Cenomans, later followed by the Romans, who had the Roman wall constructed in the 3rd and 4th centuries. In the Middle Ages, a great many wooden and stone bridges spanned the two banks of the Sarthe – bringing economic interest to the city. In the 19th century, the banks of the Sarthe underwent major containment works in order to alleviate the problems of excessively regular flooding. Currently, its banks offer a host of ideas for walks thanks to its landscaped parks and gardens (Île aux Planches park, Gué-de-Maulny park and the Allée des Pêcheurs or the Promenade du Chemin de Halage, for example). Private and public gardens take pride of place in Le Mans! Veritable green lungs, these green spaces can be found throughout the city on both banks of the Sarthe. Along streets, the typical urban dwellings known as the Mancelles hide land used as vegetable gardens, which became landscaped during the 20th century. Public gardens are very important in Le Mans.

THE JARDIN DES PLANTES

Rue Prémartine, designed by Jean-Charles Alphand, creator of the Bois de Boulogne, Bois de Vincennes and Montsouris parks in Paris. Created upon the initiative of the Sarthe Horticultural Society, this park is made up of two distinct parts: the regular "French" garden (featuring a rose garden) and the landscaped "English" garden (with a pond).

TESSÉ PARK

Located on Avenue de Paderborn, this park is one of the oldest in the city. Attached to the former Hôtel de Lavardin, then the Hôtel de Tessé (current Tessé Museum), since the 17th century, this park spans 2.3 hectares and features a pond and abundant flower beds. In the 1920s, it was redeveloped into an English garden. Since 2009, the giant "Le Temps Imparti-Eclipse" hourglass, created by Jean-Bernard Métais to celebrate the new millenium in 2000, embellishes the garden and represents one of the city's Seven Treasures.

OTHER GARDENS

A variety of gardens were developed throughout the 20th and 21st centuries.

ÎLE AUX PLANCHES (along the Sarthe) is an island of greenery, created in 2008. On the Pont du Greffier, the "L'Envol" statue – dedicated to the launch of aviation in the department – was created by the sculptor Paul Landowski, creator of Rio de Janeiro's famous "Christ the Redeemer".

PARC DE L'ÎLE AUX PLANCHES

THE POETS GARDEN` on Avenue Rostov-sur-le-Don offers up colourful notes in every season, at the foot of the wall and the Town Hall.

Nature by Tram to discover our nature heritage in a more gentle means of transport.

PARC BANJAN

THÉODORE-MONOD PARK, located near the hospital and incorporating the remains of the former Chanzy barracks, offers up two hectares of greenery.

IN BANJAN PARK, upon a hillside and accessible from Rue de Banjan, apple trees have been planted, calling back to the area's original production.

LES QUINCONCES DES JACOBINS
PROMENADE DES CORDELIERS

Les Quinconces des Jacobins and the Promenade des Cordeliers, at the back of the "Les Quinconces" complex, have existed since the end of the 18th century, following the destruction of religious enclosures during the Revolution.

The development work revealed the remains of the Roman amphitheatre, which explains the name of the neighbourig streets: rue des arènes, des Gladiateurs, du Cirque.

Inaugurated in 1811, this lime-tree-lined promenade is very popular with both locals and visitors passing through Le Mans.

JARDINS DES TANNERIES

JARDINS DE GOURDAINE

THE GOURDAINE and Les TANNERIES Gardens decorate the banks of the Sarthe and highlight a section of the Roman enclosure and the remains of the medieval town wall.

THE ARCHE DE LA NATURE

Located ten minutes from the heart of the city of Le Mans, the Arche de la Nature offers visitors a vast natural space. Along the paths, walkers can discover the river, the wooded countryside and the forest – leading all the way to the Maison de l'Eau, the Maison de la Forêt and the Maison de la Prairie (garden and farm). In all, there are 500 hectares of nature to be discovered free of charge and permanently open to the public.

Au bord de l'Huisne, l'ancienne usine de production d'eau potable dévoile un patrimoine industriel unique : machines à vapeur et hydrauliques, roues à aubes, éolienne Bollée.

Aujourd'hui pôle pédagogique sur l'eau et les énergies, la Maison de l'Eau propose des modules interactifs sur le cycle de l'eau, la vie dans la rivière avec notamment de grands aquariums sur les poissons d'eau douce, ainsi qu'une exposition sur les énergies.

MAISON DE LA PRAIRIE

The Maison de la Prairie is a conservation farm and a large vegetable garden. This site is home to a range of local breeds, some rather unusual (the Le Mans hen, the Cotentin donkey, the Maine-Anjou cow or the Bleu du Maine sheep, among others). Its 2,100 m² vegetable garden offers a variety of vegetables and different gardening techniques.

LE MANS CAPITAL OF THE AUTOMO- TIVE INDUSTRY

Created in 1923, the 24 Hours of Le Mans is the largest endurance race in the world, bringing together millions of television viewers each year and more than 250,000 spectators on site.

Recognised worldwide as the toughest motorsport event, the legend of Le Mans is – above all – a story of men and machines. A true human and technological challenge, the 24 Hours of Le Mans is also a week of festivities and entertainment, which come together to contribute to the charm and spirit of this event.

More than 180 drivers take to the starting line each year, on the second or third Saturday of June, at 4 pm, on this 13.6 km long circuit. No less than 1,700 track marshals and 2,500 volunteers – all passionate about the sport – ensure the organisation, logistics, safety and welcoming of visitors.

THE 24 HOURS OF LE MANS MUSEUM

Through 140 vehicles, the Automobile Club de l'Ouest reveals the epic story of the automotive industry in Sarthe and the success of its international event. Bentley, Ferrari, Jaguar, Ford, Porsche, Matra, Audi ... All the big names are represented here by their legendary models, immersing the visitor in the greatest endurance race in the world.

350 m² of temporary exhibitions complete this themed tour, which can be continued with a visit to the famous 24 Hours of Le Mans circuit. All the big names are represented here by their legendary models, immersing the visitor in the greatest endurance race in the world.

Shortbread cookies, Jasnières wine, Coteaux du Loir and apple turnovers are also granted pride of place in grocery stores and bakeries. The "Le Mans" hen is an old breed that has recently regained its former glory. Find a fantastic range of products in our shop area.

AIGNÉ

Located about ten kilometres from Le Mans, this rural town has existed since the Middle Ages, with a very tumultuous history during the Virée de Galerne, in 1793.

The Church of the Assumption houses archaeological traces from a range of periods, most notably from the 12th to the 20th century.

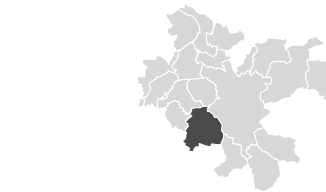

Note the presence of a red-sandstone cross which may have served as a boundary marker along the old path leading to Mont-Saint-Michel.

ALLONNES

Not from Le Mans, Allonnes was founded in the 4th century: the remains of ancient monuments such as the sanctuary of the Les Fées or Les Perrières towers attest to distant origins. At the end of the 19th century, the Château de la Forêterie – built by Georges Darcy, whose father was a surveying architect in Le Mans and worked with Viollet-le-Devant – was an important cultural and artistic centre. The Saint-Martin church, founded in the 11th century, features an elegant altarpiece dedicated to Saint-Sébastien and a stained-glass window donated by the former owners of the Château de La Forêterie.

The Excelsior barge, a truly incredible place, serves as a café and concert venue, as well as a secret cultural centre of life in Allonnes.

ARNAGE

Since the Middle Ages, Arnage was closely dependent on Pontlieue, and it was not until 1853 that the commune of Arnage itself was born. Endowed with intense port activity and served by the railway since the 19th century, this settlement projects an image of a real working-class town.

At the gates of Le Mans and along the road leading to the central western region, in Anjou and Touraine, the town served as a stop-over and offered a great many inns and hotels.

Rare church dedicated to Saint-Gilles, patron saint of the infirm and archers.

CHAMPAGNÉ

The town owes its economic wealth to wine and craft activities (textiles and spinning mills).

Built by the architect Carré-Lemaître in 1905, the Château de Réveillon bears witness to the site's great economic health – as does the Château des Aubrys.

The Saint-Désiré church, built in the 16th and 19th centuries, features superb altarpieces (17th and 19th centuries) as well as terracotta pieces and a stained-glass window commemorating the active role of the Papal Zouaves during the Franco-Prussian battle.

The Auvours camp was created after the Battle of Le Mans in 1871. Founded around 1960, the Rillettes factories sell pots across France.

CHAUFOUR- NOTRE-DAME

This town's name comes from its ancient activity centred around lime kilns (fours à chaux). The town is located on the edge of the Mans-Jublains Roman road.

Archaeological discoveries (pottery and coins) attest to its ancient origins.

The construction of the royal road in the 18th century served to further develop the village.

The Notre-Dame church features some interesting furniture (altarpieces and baptismal fonts).

FAY

Pointing to the village's ancient origins, a Gallo-Roman villa and pottery from this period have been discovered.

Later, an 11th century church would come to constitute its urban core.

During the Revolution, Republican clashes against the people of the Vendée were violent. According to legend, the wooden altarpiece of the Saint-Pierre-Saint-Paul church originally came from the Hôtel-Dieu de Coëffort.

Here, various elements of everyday heritage, witnesses of a bygone era, can still be admired (washhouse, wayside crosses, lime kiln, etc.).

LA CHAPELLE SAINT-AUBIN

Crossed by the old Montois road during the Middle Ages, then bordered to the east by the old royal road leading to Alençon, the territory was placed under the authority of the Saint-Julien chapter of Le Mans.

At the end of the Second World War, the future Marshal Leclerc de Hautecloque – at the head of the Second Armoured Division – crossed the town and spent a night there. In 1970, and again in the 21st century, a profound change began with the establishment of commercial areas.

The remains of ancient monuments can be found here, scattered throughout the territory (leper colony, crosses, wells, red-sandstone crosses, farms, calvary).

COULAINNES

Two of the aqueducts of Vindinum (Latin name of Le Mans) passed through the territory of Coulainnes, indicating human occupation during the Antiquity. Very soon after, these lands were included in the possessions of the bishops of Le Mans.

From the 11th to the 14th century, the town was repeatedly devastated (first by William the Conqueror, then by the Manceaux).

In the 18th century, the town became a place of relaxation for the Manceaux – then, from the 20th century onwards, it would experience significant construction efforts. The Saint-Nicolas church features some interesting terracotta elements, characteristic of Maine production.

LA MILESSÉ

The village's origins date back to the Roman period, as it was formed along an ancient communication route.

The church of Saint-Pierre, founded in the 11th century, is characterised by the presence of red-sandstone rubble stone, a local material.

MULSANNE

Renowned in the world of 24 Hour races for its famous bend and surrounded by pines, this town is located south of Le Mans, along the old 18th-century royal road towards Tours.

The population then increased, particularly towards the end of the 20th century.

PRUILLÉ-LE-CHÉTIF

Ancient texts indicate the presence of a Roman villa in this area. During the Middle Ages, the bishops owned land and outbuildings here. The village experienced enormous development during the 19th century. The Saint-Pierre church, founded in the 11th century, was enlarged in the 19th century. 18th and 19th-century heritage is particularly important here (castle, mansions, noble houses) and varied (calvary, cross, washhouse, hemp kiln and Bollée wind turbine).

RUAUDIN

Located on the fringes of the communication routes leading to the city of Le Mans, the town was dependant on the chapter of the collegiate church of Saint-Pierre-La-Cour. Established on poor, sandy soils, covered with pines and heather, the town has never had any major economic role. Close to the road to Tours and the Le Mans agglomeration, Ruaudin has been developing rapidly for several years. Particular highlights: two civil-construction dedication stones dating from 1864 and 1869 located near the church. Restored washhouse.

ROUILLON

One of Vindinum's aqueducts passed through this town's land to supply the city with water. From the 15th century, a castle belonging to the Nepveu family, Lords of Rouillon, was erected, a highlight within the town and the source of a veritable infatuation for the village. A presbytery, mansions, farms, hemp kiln and the Carmel Vaujoubert-Notre-Dame chapel can all be found within the local area.

SAINT-GEORGES-DU-BOIS

The medieval church was dependant on the former abbey of Saint-Julien du Pré du Mans. During the post-revolutionary period, the village served as a gathering place for Vendée troops before their departure for Le Mans. Highlights: various statues representing Saint-Georges and a Virgin and Child. A succession of small fountains inspire the name of a street and remind us of the importance of water in this village.

SAINT-SATURNIN

Held by Bishop Sigefroy during the Middle Ages, Saint-Saturnin fell into the hands of the lords of La Milesse. The church was built according to the vagaries of local history (from the 10th to the 18th century). Across a wide territory, local heritage presents its vast importance (bread oven, hemp kiln, red-limestone cross and calvary, and typical small farms).

SARGÉ-LÈS-LE MANS

Sargé-lès-Le Mans has gradually developed along the old road leading to Rouen. This stronghold was dependent on the bishopric of Le Mans. Not far from the city of Le Mans and endowed with numerous vineyards, the town supplied the neighbouring city with the wine that would become an important part of the daily lives of its inhabitants. It is in this town that "paving sandstone" was first marketed.

The Saint-Aubin church is home to some interesting furniture (altarpiece, statues, terracotta, brotherhood processional pole) and a significant civil heritage (barn, castles, town hall/school and an 18th century road marker).

- 5 ARBRETUM DE COULAINES - PARC YVES-ROUY DE SARGÉ

TRANGÉ

In the Middle Ages, the parish was dependant on the chapter of the Saint-Julien cathedral. The French etymology of the castle of La Groirie (17th and 18th centuries) suggests that its original owner was responsible for monitoring and exploiting the woods and forests. Legend has it that it was in this place that the ruler who would go on to found the monastic life of La Trappe was born.

YVRÉ-L'ÉVÊQUE

From the 11th century onwards, the bishops stays' became so frequent that the village adopted its current name and subsequently became an important place of residence within the Le Mans diocese, notably under the episcopate of Louis de Grimaldi.

- 6 ARBRETUM ARCHE DE LA NATURE - LES ÉTANGS CHAUX

The Saint-Germain church has the particularity of being composed of a choir covered with Plantagenêt-style vaults dating from the 12th century, but also with stained-glass windows that retrace the battle of 11 January 1871 on the plateau of the current Auvours camp.

Home to the recumbent statue of Bérengère de Navarre, widow of Richard the Lionheart, the Cistercian abbey of Épau is dependant on the commune of Yvré l'Évêque and belongs to the Departmental Council of Sarthe.
